

THE WORLD'S TALLEST OBSERVATION WHEEL STARTED SPINNING ON OCTOBER 21

Ain Dubai is an observation wheel, located on Bluewaters Island. It's nearly twice the height of the London Eye, and will provide sprawling views of Dubai's skyline. On a clear day, visitors should be able to see everything from Bluewaters Island to Dubai Marina and Palm Jumeirah, to Burj Al Arab and even Burj Khalifa. The attraction has 48 cabins.

It has been one of the most highly anticipated tourist attractions in the UAE since construction started in 2015.

A single rotation takes about 38 minutes. For safety reasons, Ain Dubai has kept a maximum capacity of 10 to 12 people per cabin.

With the wheel standing 250 metres tall in the backdrop, there was a jubilant atmosphere on Bluewaters Island. While the observation cabins are popular for those who want to experience the view, Ain Dubai has also launched a variety of packages, from social experiences with VIP treatment to private cabins that can be booked for events such as birthdays or weddings.

Sheikh Hamdan bin Mohammed, Crown Prince of Dubai, is no stranger to danger.

He has often shared his adventures via social media, whether he's skydiving, jet-skiing, hiking, snowboarding or zip-lining.

He's even climbed to the top of Burj Khalifa, filming himself harnessed to the spire of the world's tallest building, 828 metres up.

Now, Sheikh Hamdan has taken the ultimate ride, by soaring over his emirate's skyline on top of a cabin on Ain Dubai, the world's largest and tallest observation wheel, which opened to the public
